B. Content update history - Elaboration of the Content – Knowledge Landscape

The module aims to illustrate ways in which police can build relationships with the community through interactions with local agencies and members of the public. It also aims to:

- enhance the capacity of police officers to recognise risk factors – indicators that can lead to radicalisation, pre-incident indicators; and
- highlight EU and other international initiatives and networks in this field.

Apart from this introduction, the module consists of 10 topic chapters. Chapters 2 and 3 present the concept of radicalisation and the main ideologies related to it, while Chapter 4 describes the process of the radicalisation of individuals. Chapter 5 refers to the EU and UN prevention strategies. Chapters 6-10 explain the concept of community policing, the indicators of radical behaviours (and associated symbols and contexts) and the preventive measures that can be implemented. The final chapter introduces multi-agency cooperation, and discusses specifically the challenges and use of action plans.

Where appropriate, within a chapter, internal hyperlinks to other chapters are provided as well as external links (indicated with the icon ). At the end of each chapter a list those external links to relevant resources, freely accessible on the web, is displayed. Users have the possibility to share content with colleagues, post comments and rate the content itself.

C. Diagnostic Self Evaluation: My progress

Users can test their own knowledge on Community Policing and Prevention of Radicalisation at any time while using the online module through the My Progress section of the module. Test items, in the form of True/False questions, are pooled according to the recurring topics of the knowledge landscape. A random selection of the items will be offered to users every time they decide to take the self-test for each of the individual topics. Based on the outcomes of the self-test, users will receive feedback and reflection possibilities which enable them to increase their further professionalization in the domain of the module.

D. Glossary

The keywords and acronyms from individual chapters are listed together (in alphabetical order) in the online module and are provided to the user to aid the comprehension of the content.
